The man who "fails" in business is. convenient target for all shafts, but as creditor as well as a debtor is necessary to the creation of a debt there would seem, abstractedly, to be no good reason for assuming that one party is more responsible combined action. If anything indeed it is rather the creditor who should bear the chief burden of bad debts, because his moral standing is presumably higher than that of the debtor. Some borrowers there are, no doubt, who justly feel that if there be any favour in the matter at all it is they who confer it on the lender by consenting to employ his funds in a remunerative manner. But the great mass of borrowers entertain less impaired by need, and need is a severe tempter. They must borrow, in short, in lenders are placed in a similar position as they also live by lending. A Shanghai native paper says:—A perplexing social question awaits solution at Peking: it relates to the disposition which should be made of a betrothed girl. A youth aged sixteen was in the last stage of consumption, and to be added to the principal, it is time for medical treatment proving futile, the advice of the bank to hold its hand, and not pay away an enchantress was taken, and the girl to whom the sick lad was engaged was sent for, and all arrangements were made for the wedding. But the thing fictitious. In cases where the just as the intended bridegroom was about to his chamber. In the Japanese case. the fact that Japanes castoms so far resemble those of Bechuanaland in that a Japanese can have as many ladies in his harem as he pleases, and legal heirs by them, was kept in the background: nor was stress laid on the fact that the applicant—the British subject could easily, had be wished, have been firmly married at the Legation at Tokyo or the Consulate at Yokohama, but neglected to do no. What made the Probate Court practically reverse its previous ruling was the imporaut difference that, in this later case, it was the man himself who made application to have his local marriage declared binding. Furthermore, he was able to produce a certified copy in Japanese and so iled by the Japanese authorities, of the registration of his marriage by a Japanese official. The Court bowed low to this evidence of the progressiveness of Japan, and with a few compliments to the civilisation of the Mikado's Empire gave its decision in favour of the applicant—a decision which, however much picul for December-January delivery. If a Chinaman can divorce his wife for any of the seven causes—of which talkativeness is one—so can a Japanese; nov the ordinary (we do not say the high class) Jananese avails himself of the privilege to a far greater extent than the ordinary Chinaman Public opinion in China is against divorce; the Penal Code endeavours in every way to strongas compared with the chick or mistress (while.

The lit is true, safeguarding the latter). One argument against British recognition of the Chinese not generally understood by foreigners, that the Penal Code allows a separation when both marriage contracted in those free and cusy American States where as they say, through trains "stop forty minutes for refreshment and divorce." Moreover, as we may have occasion to show, this separation is not held by Chinese jurists to amount necessarily to a dissolution of he marriage. The weight of the contention ceremonial for Inland Mission marriages would explained that if a District Magistrate had to register every marriage in his district he would no time to collect landtax, try banditti, or pay calls. Yet (we did not like, for obvious reasons, to tell him) provision has actually been made in one of the li or later laws of his Penal Code for registration of at any rate one class of marriage. Staunton did not translate the li. and so we must provide our own version. "In the case of intermarriage between the savages I Hunan who have not yet adopted the queue and the ordinary population, where the customs of the latter are followed in respect to bridge gifts and nuptials, go-betweens must be called upon to draw up the marriage deed and had lights. The prisoners have confessed what follows :-- The inhabitants of the districts, bordering on Kansul, were fully convinced the tolograph poles served as abodes for avil demons, and were considering and consulting, how to rangely the matter best. The agitation was brought to a point, by the circumstance of a circular having been found, of unknown origin and with the feather of a lon attached to it. containing the following information: "The telegraph poles are causing the drought; whenver finds this circular must quickly forward it on. Every family must send a man to out down the poles, or shall be fined by the community a sum of money." The circular was swiftly and widely carried about, and the 24th March was appointed for a meeting at To-shulkey, to commence with cutting down the poles. The destruction began. After the arrests that took place, the poles, the wire, and the axes were found, but the circular had been burnt. Six ringleaders have been executed, and their heads exposed along the line, as far as the frontier of Honan. This will teach the people that the line has been constructed by order of the Emparer, and whoever dares to damage it

us they shall deserve. Pro Memorialist was first of the opinion that the whole trouble had been caused by members of accret societies, since they are apread all over the province, but such is not the case. At first it was supposed that the bands who filled in the coal mines, and who destroyed the tolegraph lines, were the same; but this is impossible, the two places are over 100 it distant from each other, and both occurrences happened nearly at the same time. The crime of the men who interfored with the coal mines is not so enormous as that of those who dared to damage the Imperial telegraph line; they will be punished in no time, according to their deserts, as soon as the process, pending against them, shall be finished. The local authorities, although they may be accused of negligence, have displayed much energy and zeal in arresting the culprits, and memorialist prays to be permitted to recommend them to the Imperial mercy. The destroyedline will be speedily repaired again, there are spare notes in Hsinn-yang; there is spare wire in Lung-chii-sai, enough for the requirements; busides, memorialist has telegraphed to Taotai Shong Hauan-busi in Chefoo, to send experianced mechanics to undertake the necessary repairs. Memorialist is in strong hopes hat, after the lesson the people have received, they will leave the telegraph line aloue in future, the more so, since a copious rainfall has taken H. A.C. Bakery must di. The other prisoners will be punished !

CHEMULPO. Ist June. We have had the U.S.S. Marion in here for some time to recuperate the health of everybody on board a little, after all the bother, worry, turmoil and excitement of Yokobama; she is to leave to-day for Chefoo, and to proceed thence to Taku, to tow the Palos to Shanghai, where this famous clipper will be handed over to the community as the nucleus of a Municipal fleet, to assist in protection against the Kolao-hui. But why not rather sell her for what she will fetch as old iron, in Take, than expend any coal on her, by her towage to your port? The U.S.S. Alert is also expected here shortly from Japan. Our new Commissioner, Mr. F. A. Morgan. and Mrs. Morgau, arrived here on the 28th May per Jerikai Maru; there is a rumour that his office will be amalgamated with the head office in Soul, which would be tantamount to the disappearance of the latter from the scene. With regard to loans there are able and willing people on the spot, capable of negotiating them with any amount of capital to back them up, and it is utterly hopeless for outsiders attempting to step in, in that line. If the Government will | Mininggrant mining concessions as security, any amount of Foreign capital can be commanded but the greedy mandaries, interested in robbing the mines, are powerful enough to prevent any such scheme, no matter how much the country would ben fit by it. And again the Chinese will not allow the Customs revenue to be hypothecated for a loan, on account of the couple of hundred theusand tacks, which the Korean Government owe to the China Merchants' Company, although from the very same source of revenue this loan o ald have been refunded long ago; but, "child-I ke and bland", the Chinese would rather see the money squandered away in new palaces, Wchai Wareh'se Co. clock towers, electric lights, and other Royal Watson & Co., A. loong's work. Politically there is nothing fresh; in that respect the Koreans are children, without any backbone; led by the nose one day by the Japaness another day by the Chinese, and some. body else next time. Everything is quiet. Our Korean Model Settlement is now surrounded by its full summer verdure, and a canopy of beautiful flowers; building operations are being carried on briskly, and the price of land continues to rise. The a ritation for opening more ports has Wladivostock still been unsuccessful so far, and the blame is i Tokio haid at the door of the jealous Chinese dog-inthe manger policy. Daily Press Office, Hougkong, For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stan is unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years teen compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court au l Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, nohieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margine and vacant apaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration: Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16.000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English ing be a appointed and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst ove Company, are this work contains more than 50,000 English KS, against FIRE words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese charac-. ters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely re-[19] quires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which bave one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-
